

CANNOT SUPPORT TOO STRONGLY

CHARITABLE WORK DONE BY THE SALVATION ARMY.

The Salvation Army desires to return thanks to J. S. Marshall and Richard Davis for their kind action in turning over to the army the residue of the fund of Decoration day. These gentlemen could not conceive a more worthy charity, and the army had on its hands some needy cases to dispose of. In this extremity, J. G. Crumley also came to the assistance, and to him also the army desires to return its need of thanks.

And for the army let it be said that Adjutant Bigney and Captain Rogers have been doing all kinds of commendable work in ministering to the wants of the needy. These young women have been doing most excellent work in the community, ferreting out cases which needed prompt action, and taking that action. There are many here about which the public at large knows nothing, who have cause to bless the efforts of the army lassies; and that the community approves and appreciates the work is evidenced by the support which the army is receiving. For that matter, the public cannot be too strong in its support of the Salvation Army.

PERSONAL MENTION

Chauncey Booth will be a passenger for Rawhide tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Erbes arrived in the city yesterday after an extended absence in Reno.

M. M. Johnson arrived from Salt Lake yesterday, and went to the Valcald Silver Peak mine.

Letson Balliet leaves this morning for a business trip to Ohio and will be away for about a month.

J. H. Price will leave for Rawhide tomorrow, where he goes in the interest of parties of this city.

E. E. Burdick, who is interested in Rawhide, both in building and mining, left for the boom camp yesterday.

A. M. Gillespie and Clarence Kind leave this morning for Rawhide. Both are interested in the Royal and Tiger claims.

L. Anderson of San Francisco, who has been looking over properties in this section of the country, left for his home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Chappell of Millers leave this morning for Lodi, Cal., from where Mr. Chappell will return to prosecute the work upon his lease at Rawhide.

T. J. Lamoreaux, a well known mining man of San Francisco, who has been here and Goldfield for the past week or ten days, left yesterday morning for Buckskin, from where he will go to Rawhide.

"LITTLE MINISTER" WELL PRESENTED

TONIGHT THE GREAT FRENCH DRAMA, "CAMILLE," IS ATTRACTION.

There was another fine crowd at the Eagles Pavilion last night, the attraction being "The Little Minister." Mr. Barrie's bonny story of Scotland has been widely read, and is one of the prettiest ever written. The love of Lady Babbie and the minister is most delicious to read and delightful to behold, and it would be a poor company that could ruin the telling of it. Miss Harper is a better Nell Gwynne than a Lady Babbie, but she bestows many prettyisms on the latter that are very fetching, in lieu of the sweet natured charm which encompasses the bewitching little lady herself. She makes a pretty picture, but lacks the shading; the bright, alluring tones are there, but the delicate tints are missing; there is conviction wanting.

It is a pretty play, "The Little Minister," with a graceful climax to every act. Joseph Detrick as the minister was very good. He imparted to the character a gentle dignity, which unbended readily and most naturally to the simple charm of Babbie as the tempting gypsy. He was manly and chivalrous, and played the part without effort. He was the sort of man for the Lady Babbie to fall in love with, and well sustained the role in all its phases.

George B. Berrill gave us a fine piece of character work in the role of Thomas Whammond, the sexton. His Scotch humor was appealing, and his dilemma between his duty to the kirk and his love for the minister was a strong piece of acting. For the rest of the cast, the people fitted well into their grooves.

Tonight, the attraction will be "Camille," than which perhaps no play is better known on the stage. In the character, Miss Harper is said to be at her best. It is wonderful how this character has lived through all the years, half a century at least, and has stood out bright and clear among the army of imitators. There have been many Camilles in book and play, and the story is now an old one, but the masterpiece of the younger Dumas lives and has remained popular through two generations.

Mr. Detrick should make a good Armand.

DAVIS HELD TO THE GRAND JURY

Fred Davis, who shot and killed Mona Bell, the young woman whom a year ago he stole from her husband, has been held to answer to the Grand Jury for murder. He will be brought to Tonopah this afternoon, and his will be the first case to be heard before the new Grand Jury.

The wretch will be given short shrift as far as the law goes, for his trial is to be pushed as fast as possible. Davis has retained Berry and Cole to defend him.

JULIUS SMITH HAS BABY BOY

HAD CINCH BET ON SEX OF CHILD AND TOOK FIRST MONEY.

"It's a boy!" shouted Julius Smith at ten minutes after four o'clock yesterday morning. There was joy in his tone; there was boy in his actions.

"It's a boy," floated softly out on the desert on the soft morning air. The little birds, suddenly awakened from their doze by something new in the air. They blinked and tweaked and twittered and sang: "It's a boy." "It's a boy!" roared the siren at the Tonopah Extension, giving the signal to change shift.

"It's a boy! Toot, toot," shrieked the locomotive whistle, coming in from Goldfield, and gradually the news spread all through Tonopah that Julius Smith was the father of a bouncing baby boy, weighing nine pounds.

Early on the January morning, January 5th came the little Nevada, came roaring and kicking, blessed with his father's proclivities, and his mother's dancing eyes. There was joy in the household. The mother was doing finely, to boy was all right and father was looking over his books, where there were recorded seventy-seven bets that the stork would bring along a Julius Jr.

Then Julius went down town to collect his bets.

"It's a boy," he said to Grant Crumley.

"I'm from Missouri," said Grant Crumley to him.

Then he went to Major Monteath, and wired to Mexico to Malcolm MacDonald and Don Gilles.

He met more people from Missouri.

"I'll show them," he said, and he went to Smith, the photographer. And at 5 o'clock last evening Photographer Smith told Grant Crumley that he had something to show him, and he removed the envelope, and behold, Crumley was shown.

"It's a boy," he said.

Julius Smith, Sr., collected $365 in bets, and spent $368 for wine.

COTILLION CLUB'S REGULAR DANCE

The Cotillion Club will have its regular weekly dance at Miners' hall tonight, and another jolly time is looked forward to. There will be the same excellent music as of yore, and many of the same people who contributed to its success in the past will be among the Terpsichorean devotees on the floor.

MOVEMENT IN NEAR FUTURE

It is said that there may be some movement in the matter of the State Bank and Trust Company within the near future. President Rice was in Goldfield yesterday, or will be there today, having been to Bullfrog, inspecting the Keane-Wonder mine for several days. From Goldfield he will probably come here.

The National Safe Deposit Company is accepting checks on all banks, including the State Bank and Trust Company, for the purchase of certain listed and unlisted stocks. This helps the situation a little.

SCOTT WHITE IS EXONERATED

CHIHUAHUA, Mex., Jan. 7.—Scott White, former treasurer of the Greene Consolidated Mining Company of Cananea, Mex., and who is now an official of the Greene Gold-Silver Company, has been exonerated from all blame by the local authorities of Navidad, this State, for killing three Mexicans at that place recently. The testimony which was taken before the local judge, showed that White was attacked by a mob of Mexicans because of some fancied grievance against him, and that in order to protect himself he fired into the crowd, killing three of them.

White was a sheriff in Arizona in the early days, and formed a partnership with Colonel W. C. Greene in the mining business.

SHERIFF'S CHARGE MADE A NOISE

Edward Fladin, delegate from Nye county to the State asylum, arrived at his destination yesterday morning and was assigned a comfortable suite on the first floor.

He arrived in charge of Sheriff J. J. Owens, who had an interesting time with him on the trip. Mr. Fladin is not distinguished by that repose which marks the caste of Vere de Vere. On the contrary, he displayed throughout the entire journey northward a strenuous disposition to make Rome howl. The welkin rang every minute of the time that he traveled, and passengers in the other cars wanted to know from the brakemen and conductors when the Nevada and California Railroad Company had installed a phonograph factory on the route.

The county authorities of Nye had kept Fladin at the county hospital for a year, and nobody within a mile complained of being lonesome while he was around.

As a concentrated essence of noise he has the Russian Douma and a boiler factory beat to a fare-you-well finish. For tone production he was Tetrazzini faded to a whisper, and circus calliope go around to some other street when they strike the town he lives in.

Although the asylum is located quite a distance this side of Sparks, a number of complaints were registered during the early hours of the morning, that nobody slept in that town last night, and inquiries were frequent as to the whereabouts of a suppositious runaway locomotive that was making a whole lot of noise.

Lack of sleep is said to be one of the causes of insanity. If Fladin remains at the asylum for any length of time it is feared that officials and attendants will finally become as bad in this regard as their charges.—Reno State Journal.

COSLETT TRIAL DRAGGING ALONG

According to the testimony of Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Coslett, who is seeking a divorce from her husband, was very fond of A. D. McLeod, the gentlemanly witness who appeared in court on Monday with a gun on him. Mrs. Clark said that she entered the home of the Cosletts one morning and came upon Mrs. C. and Mc in the attitude of Romeo and Juliet; that is, that their actions were such as one would expect of very young persons of opposite sex, who were very much in love with each other. According to this witness, Mrs. Coslett had kind and gentle words for Mr. McLeod, and rough ones for her hubby.

Then the defendant took the stand and told of more endearing passages between his wife and Mr. McLeod. The latter, he said, was wont to comb and stroke the tangled tresses of his wife, and Mrs. Coslett seemed to like the operation. She used to go to dances with McLeod and stay out late, and refused to share such diversions with Mr. Coslett. The case is still dragging, but will probably wear out today.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

H. K. Moore had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday in a runaway. Mr. Moore was about to step into his business buggy, when the horse took fright at a runaway and dashed down the street. Mr. Moore had his foot on the step of his buggy when the horse started, and was knocked down, his head striking a hammer which he carried. He escaped with but slight injury, but the buggy was smashed into splinters.
